

Dr. Nabil Gasmi – Research Associate

Nabil GASMI has joined EplerWood International to help manage the Tourism and Environmental Health in a Changing Climate project in the Tozeur region of Tunisia. The project is being carried out in collaboration with Harvard and is funded by GIZ. Dr. Gasmi is a geographer and academic who is a professor at University of Sousse in Tunisia. He also is the head of the NGO “Oasian and Saharian Tourism Development Chamber”. Gasmi has carried out consultancies for the World Bank and has worked with academic institutions from around the world to study the region's potential for Geo-tourism and to further preserve and sustainably develop its particular oasis ecosystem's in the North of Sahara.